Introduction

Chanapollakhan Technological College Nakornratchasima (C-tech)

“Chanapollakhan” is the royal grant name of Lord Chanapollakhan (Pherm Jamjun). He was the Ayuttaya native by birth. He had 3 blood relations brothers-sisters, all served under the crown during the end of Ayuttaya times. After the collapse of Ayuttaya times they transferred to Bangkok that was later the capital city.

For the lord Chanapollakhan (Pherm Jamjun) himself , he served under the crown as the artist of the royal palace and resigned at around the end of king Rama 4 royal times because of his ill health.

The executive board of Chanapollakhan Technological College agreed that the name “Chanapollakhan” was appropriated for naming the new institute. According to these following reasons:

- 1.) It's the name that it is the royal grant name and has the auspicious meaning as:

Chana	means the uniqueness of victory
Pollakhan	means all groups of people
So Chanapollakhan	means the uniqueness of victory over all groups of people

There for this institute is the institute of mass trust.

- 2.) He was the artist of Rattanakosin royal bureau. His ever made jobs, murals in the royal palace and Sutattepwanaram Temple. So that, his name was appropriated to use as the name of industrial and commercial school.
- 3.) He was a kind, un-ostentatious, omniscient and knowledge pursuit person. Although, he has resigned from serving under the crown, he took the children from the local villages and taught them including his own children to know how to read and write.
